

My business uses cell phones heavily and we have changed providers several times, every time having to get new phone numbers. I find it disgusting that Verizon is lobbying against this. Imagine what it would be like for home (consumer) phone users if they had to change their phone number everytime they change carrier. I strongly urge you to require the cell phone companies to allow wireless number portability. It is obvious that Verizon wants to prevent this because it would increase competitive pressures.

Thank you.